Every year thousands of British nationals face problems when on holiday. Many regret not making simple preparations before they travel abroad, such as taking out travel insurance, getting vaccinations or finding out more about local laws and customs. Others are simply caught out in situations that are unpreventable

Your story could be used to help inform other Britons travelling abroad about the importance of preparing properly for their trip. If you have a story you would like to share or if you have received valuable assistance from our consular staff which you would like to tell us about please contact us.
